

Why Maxine should be adopted

Hello reader, I'm a student from Dr Ross Tilley and i'm going to tell you all about Maxine, a domestic shorthair cross cat which is two years old, female and Calico and Tabby. Maxine resides in the animal shelter waiting for someone to take them to their forever home and these are all the reasons why you should be that person to take Maxine home.

Firstly, Maxine's health is fully up to date, they are microchipped, their vaccinations are up to date, they are spayed/neutered and has not been declawed. So Maxine would not need any immediate medical attention or appointments to the vet. And as said before Maxine is only 2 years old so they will be your companion and your best buddy at the same time for a very very long time.

Secondly, since Maxine's kittens were taken to better lives in a forever home they have decided that humans are not a serious threat. Maxine has opened up to people by requesting attention from time to time by asking to be pet and scratched. Cuddling is off limits currently but, with enough trust you can probably pull that off. Maxine likes to play sometimes but not as a normal occurrence. This would be great if you are looking for a more relaxed cat who won't require a lot of constant attention and playing.

Lastly, Maxine deserves and needs a forever home! After having 4 kittens, being adopted in December, being 2 years old and still in the shelter awaiting someone that will take them in. I think Maxine needs a forever home just like her kittens. She may be shy at first not accepting attention but with enough trust Maxine can be a great best buddy or companion whichever one sounds better.

In conclusion Maxine is healthy with her vaccinations and everything else up to date. She is friendly and attention seeking. But with all that Maxine is still in the shelter and after staying this long I think they deserve a forever home don't you?
